The Air Force has scheduled the Civil Air Patrol National Headquarters building to undergo major renovation beginning later this month. The project is expected to take 16 to 18 months and will require the entire headquarters staff to relocate to another facility on Maxwell AFB. Movers are scheduled to arrive on 15 December to move furniture and files. The move is scheduled to be complete by 20 December.

There will be some minor interruptions to phone service during the move to the new building. You may expect intermittent phone service to begin on Thursday, 11 December and continue through Monday, 15 December. Throughout the transition the National Operations Center will be able to take your phone calls and forward any urgent messages to NHQ staff members as needed.

Whenever possible, we do request that you use e-mail for this period instead of a phone call to make sure your question or issue is addressed. E-mail service will not be interrupted but responses from NHQ staff may be delayed while computers are moved from one office to another.

The mailing address for the temporary NHQ facility will remain the same.

Thank you for your patience during the building moving process.
